Kluwer Arbitration

With a subscription to Kluwer Arbitration you will gain access to a valuable collection of arbitration related material, many of which are exclusive to the site.

Materials include:

Bilateral Investment Treaties (BITs) – You gain access to the full text of more than 2,200 BITs. Our user-friendly BIT Tool allows you to view the signature and entry into force dates of the BITs entered into.

Case Law – You can view an unsurpassed database of almost 7,500 court decisions and 2,000 arbitral awards, many of which are exclusive to the site.

Indian Journal of Arbitration Law (IJAL) – The only journal in the field that deals extensively with arbitration in India, a country of growing interest and importance for arbitration. The content will help customers to identify and understand trends, developments and procedural issues related to arbitration in India.

International Handbook Commercial Arbitration Compare Jurisdictions Tool – the ICCA Handbook is an essential tool for anyone practising in international arbitration across multiple jurisdictions. The new Tool allows users to compare information in the ICCA Handbook Country Reports for selected jurisdictions and for selected topics/subtopics in one document.

Additional Annulment Summaries - Chinese Court Decision Summaries on Arbitration - A Collection of English summaries of Chinese enforcement, validity and annulment decisions edited by WunschARB. It now includes an additional 224 summaries related to decisions concerning the annulment of arbitral awards. This completes the initial China Database and will bring the total to just under 500 cases.

Revista Brasileira de Arbitragem – Have access to this highly respected journal, licensed from the Comitê Brasileiro de Arbitragem (CBAr) & IOB, to keep you abreast on both Brazilian and international doctrine and jurisprudence.

Mediation Content - A select amount of practitioner-friendly mediation content has been added to the service.

It includes: The IMI, Mediator tool, 5 Mediation Books and posts from Kluwer Mediation Blog

Commentary – You have to hand a virtual library including a wealth of authoritative publications from the extensive Kluwer Law International arbitration catalogue, including books and journals. Please see the back page for a full list of all the titles included in Kluwer Arbitration.

Conventions – You have access to the full text of the most important arbitration treaties.

Countries – You can browse materials on the site by country, including: organisations, BITs, court decisions, legislation, awards and rules. This means that if you are researching a specific country you will be able to find all the relevant information in one place.

Legislation – You have access to the legislation for key jurisdictions. The site includes the text of almost 600 laws.

News – You can read the latest news as covered by the Institute for Transnational Arbitration (ITA) Reporters and sign up to receive the ITA Arbitration Reporter by email.

Rules – You can view the rules for more than 200 major institutions, with easy access to the relevant websites.

Plus, you can also read posts from the award winning KluwerArbitrationBlog written by eminent professionals from around the world.

Time Saving Practice Tools

6 Time Saving Comparative Smart Charts

The Question and Answer Smart Charts allow you to quickly examine and/or compare specific content by particular jurisdiction or arbitral institution.

The charts include:

- NEW Smart Chart - VAT Treatment of Arbitrator Services, is edited by PwC, and a dedicated team of country contributors. This new Smart Chart provides key Questions and focused Answers, offering practical guidance on VAT for arbitrator services on a jurisdiction-by-jurisdiction basis.
- Arbitral Institutions: An at-a-glance comparative summary of the procedural rules of the major international Arbitral Institutions.
- Drafting an Arbitration Agreement: A comparative summary of the main components of arbitration agreements across key jurisdictions. It assists with the drafting of valid and binding arbitration agreements and helps ensure that awards rendered in those jurisdictions are not subject to challenge, or have difficulty being enforced.

With the exception of the VAT Treatment of Arbitrator Services Smart Chart (edited by PwC), the above Smart Charts are edited by Audrey Sheppard, Head of International Arbitration Group, Clifford Chance LLP, with the assistance of a dedicated team of country contributors.

The IAI Arbitrator Tool

allows you to search the IAI Directory and compare members' details. Searches can be run based on a number of criteria: name, country of residence; nationality; languages spoken; experience, both as arbitrator, or as counsel; publications and awards rendered.

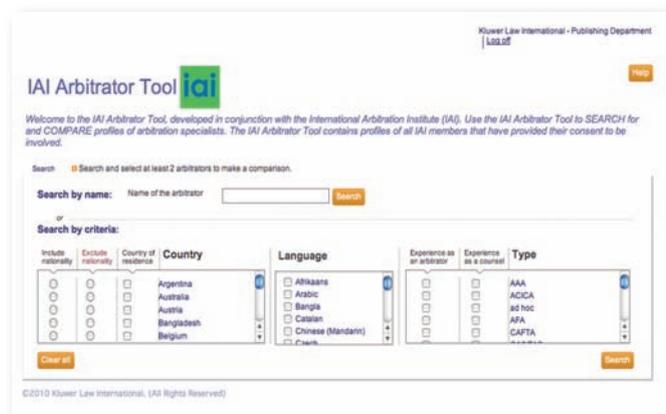

Where appropriate, links will be included to the full text of publications or awards on KluwerArbitration.

The 'Compare' function allows you to view arbitrator's side-by-side, to aid ease-of-use.

The IAI Arbitrator tool has been developed in conjunction with the International Arbitration Institute (IAI). The IAI maintains a Directory of members that is considered as one of the best sources of biographical information on arbitration specialists.

Country	Answer	Author	Contact
Australia	Yes, the services of arbitrators fall within the scope of GST and would generally be subject to GST if Australia were supplied to or from a resident.	March 2014	PwC Australia Email: australia@pwccompliance.com , Tel: +61-2-8000-0000
Belgium	The services of arbitrators are taxable persons with the right to deduct input VAT. The services of arbitrators for the award fall within the scope of VAT if the conditions for the status of taxable person are met.	March 2014	De Nederlandsche Bank Email: vat@dnb.be , Tel: +32-20-530-0000
